

Sub F5> 7 station, said consumer interface having one from a group comprised of a keyboard,
8 an automated phone answering device, and a modem for connection to a remote
9 computer for receiving an order from a consumer, said order including a quantity
10 and a type of food product;

11 connecting said consumer interface electronically with said control unit;

12 storing a plurality of recipes for producing a plurality of baked food
13 products in said process control unit;

Ex 14 receiving an order from a consumer with said customer interface;

15 directing said dough making apparatus with said process control unit to 16 feed said raw ingredients from said plurality of storage devices into said dough
17 making apparatus to mix the ingredients according to said order;

18 controlling said dough making apparatus with said process control unit to 19 sequentially deliver said mixture of ingredients to a baking station for a 20 predetermined time to produce a finished product; and 21 delivering said finished product to said consumer at said delivery station.
